

Leave our no call list alone, we finially got a program that will give us some relief from annoying tellamarketers, and you want to take that away. We can tell you right now if a bank started pestering us after we no longer banked with them, we would be extremely annoyed, and would no way go back to them for practicing these procedures.